Envoys Agree on Pilot of R. B. Potashnick Plane Killed, Daughter Hurt Talk Procedure

PARIS (AP) - American and North Vietnamese negotiators also have reached agreement today on procedural matters for Monday's opening of talks which could lead to an end of the war in Vietnam. The atmosphere of today's meeting was described as "very good" by an American official.

Cyrus R. Vance, deputy leader of the American delegation, told newsmen after today's session: "We have concluded all procedural arrangements. We will go into substance on Monday."

Vance was emphatic on one point: "The atmosphere has been very good."

He said it had been agreed with his opposite number, Col. Ha Van Lau, that the conference will be conducted in two official languages—English and Vietnamese—with French as the working language. This means that each side will use its own language in conducting the day-to-day business of the conference. But French will be used for any conference documents and statements, which can be readily translated and understood by both sides.

After today's second and final 2-hour and 22-minute procedural meeting, Lau was smiling broadly, as he usually does, and told newsmen he was "very satisfied." Asked if there would be a further meeting tomorrow, he said: "Tomorrow is Sunday."

Pressed as to whether a Vietnam cease-fire would be the first order of business Monday, he replied: "No comment. We must leave that to the heads of the delegations."

Vance said an agenda for the talks Monday was not discussed. Vance and Lau were reported to have shaken hands at the start of the meeting, as they did the first time they met.

HIGH AND LOW

YESTERDAY

High and low temperatures for the 24 hour period ending at 7:30 a.m. today were 59 and 56 with 2.35 inches of rain.

Sunset today --- 7:56 p.m.

Sunrise tomorrow --- 5:53 a.m. The moon rises --- 7:20 p.m. today and will be Full - 8:05 a.m. tomorrow. This will be the largest appearing Full Moon of the year as the moon is only 221,800 miles from the earth tomorrow, the nearest it has been since last November.

Their opening round Friday also had been described as polite.

Following the Saturday session U.S. spokesman William Jorden met reporters and issued a statement saying the two sides today's meeting was described as "very good" by an American official.

Monday at 10:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. EDT).

It also was agreed, Jorden said in response to questions, for each side—meaning U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and North Vietnam's negotiator Xuan Thuy—to make opening statements. Jorden said he did not know yet whether those statements would be released for publication.

Ambassador Harriman "is pleased that the procedural questions have been settled and the official conversations will begin on Monday," Jorden added.

On the basis of reports from Vance, the U.S. spokesman described the tone of the meeting today as "good and businesslike."

He said there had been no discussion of an agenda to be followed in the Monday talks and no agreement to set a schedule for future sessions because that would be worked out from day to day.

There also is no arrangement for either Harriman or Thuy to preside over the meetings. Apparently the discussions will be carried on primarily as a give-and-take conversation between the two principals.

He added that it had been agreed each side would be permitted to have up to 20 persons at the Monday meeting, including members of each official delegation, interpreters, staff assistants, stenographers, record keepers, and the like.

It also has been agreed that the two sides will exchange lists of the persons who will participate Monday. From this Jorden said he concluded that there would be some contact between the delegations on Sunday, but he did not know how, where, or at what level.

Portageville Soldier Killed In Bunker Cavein

PORTAGEVILLE -- Ronnie Richardson, 19, son of Mrs. Evelyn Richardson and the late Walter Richardson, Jr., was killed in Vietnam Wednesday.

Richardson, who had been with the army in Vietnam since early this year, was killed when a bunker caved in.

He was a 1966 graduate of Portageville high school and nephew of Mayor Barry Richardson.

The body will be returned to DeLisle Funeral Home.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. AP - A twin-engine private plane crashed and burned near the Cape Girardeau airport Friday night, killing the pilot and injuring his passenger.

The pilot was identified as Jack Starkwether, 47, and his passenger as Mrs. Mary P. Harrison, 38, both of Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Harrison is the daughter of the plane's owner, R. B. Potashnick, a Cape Girardeau contractor.

Starkwether was his pilot.

The plane went down during a heavy rainstorm on the Donald Heisserer farm nine miles south of Cape Girardeau.

Two highway patrolmen and an auxiliary city policeman, summoned by Heisserer, arrived as the plane caught fire. They rescued Mrs. Harrison and pulled Starkwether's body from the wreckage.

One of the patrolmen, Bill Adams, was hospitalized with exhaustion after the rescue. He fought the fire with two large extinguishers until Cpl. Norman Copeland of the patrol and the auxiliary policeman, Gene Hucksted, got Mrs. Harrison and Starkwether's body free.

Starkwether had flown Mrs. Harrison to Culver, Ind., for a visit with her son who is in a military school there. They were returning to Cape Girardeau when the plane crashed.

Mrs. Harrison and Adams were admitted to the Southeast Hospital at Cape Girardeau.

The plane, a Bonanza Beechcraft, apparently came in too low and struck a tree one and a half miles south of the Cape Girardeau municipal airport.

Mrs. Harrison received a back injury and a fractured leg.

Evans Ordered To Stand Trial For 2 Slayings

POPLAR BLUFF (AP) - Edna Lee Evans, 39, was ordered bound over Friday night to stand trial for the slaying of a woman and an elderly man at Neelyville April 25.

Evans, charged with two counts of first degree murder, was given a preliminary hearing Friday night before Magistrate Jack Jolly.

Evans is accused of killing Maple Williams, 41, and Earl Myers, 75, of Neelyville. Both were shot to death with a high-powered rifle. He was arrested south of Poplar Bluff shortly after the bodies were discovered with a rifle in his possession.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Democratic contenders on the Nebraska ballot for next Tuesday's primary.

Humphrey is not entered in any primaries.

But Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Werve of Omaha said Humphrey Nebraska supporters hoped to promote a sizable write-in vote for the vice president.

Werve said in an interview he hoped the Humphrey show in Omaha would bolster what he called an informal, word-of-mouth campaign. "It's not intended to be any kind of an aggressive campaign," he said. "This is going to be spontaneous."

While Werve would offer no estimate of the potential Humphrey vote, he said "it will be substantial."

Humphrey specifically denied he was trying to promote write-in votes. The Omaha engagement was arranged months ago, before he was a candidate for the nomination. And his campaign headquarters in Washington disavowed the Nebraska write-in effort. United Democrats for Humphrey said the vice president is not directly or indirectly involved in the primary, and his organization has no part in any write-in campaign.

This was designed to disassociate Humphrey from efforts his strategists rate as likely to fail.

Kennedy is rated the favorite in the Nebraska primary.

While Humphrey was having no part of the write-in talk, he was not neglecting the other side of the primary ballot, on which Nebraska Democrats will choose delegates to cast 28 nominating votes at the national convention.

There were 103 candidates, 42 of them pledged to President Johnson whose name also remains on the preferential ballot, although he has said he will not run again.

a man can stand. I got the men who were with me out of there—there were 13 of us. Then we waited. Nobody panicked. Everybody was real cool. As soon as he got to a phone, Davis called the outside and told them to ready the pumps. I knew we were going to get out because I had faith in Tim Salvati (one of the outside rescue officials who also was one of the first into the mine to lead the men out).

We just talked. Some of us slept. For a while we just sat and had a good old bull session. All the boys had a good sense of humor.

And they told a lot of jokes. I wouldn't care to repeat them here in front of my wife.

After a while we had trouble breathing. There was plenty of air but we had pressure in there because of the rising water. Our ears nearly blew up when they punched that hole through (an air and supply hole drilled from the top of the mountain.) That hole meant life for us, food, blankets and drinking water.

Before they sunk that hole it was cold if you didn't move around.

We were pretty disappointed when they didn't get us out when they said they would but it didn't dishearten us too much. We knew there were going to be several problems, we understood them and we knew the boys outside were going to run into them.

Tuesday night we say the water start dropping.

When Bunny Dillon became sick (Oscar Dillon who had an ulcer attack and was sent medicine from outside) some of the men thought he was going to die. It was real bad there for a while.

Fifteen in Sunset Addition have requested consideration to purchase two houses moved from Harris street into Sunset by Recovery Inc.

Charles Mitchell, Realtor and Recovery board member, related he received these requests during a public forum at 9 a.m. today at the city administration building.

Other Recovery members or the panel were: Mayor Kendall Sikes, City Manager W. Raymer Miller, the Rev. Joseph Wagner First Methodist Church pastor and Donald Fulton, principal of Lincoln School.

The organization has written all churches in Sikeston declaring May 19, as Recovery Day, and requesting ministers to take up a collection for the organization then AIMS.

Phil Nash, moderator of the forum, explained that the purpose of Recovery is to assist in providing adequate housing and better living conditions for all citizens of Sikeston.

The corporation consists of five committees: Community betterment, real estate, finance, loan and public relations.

Sam Gibson, a member of Recovery who is an architect with Buchmueller, Whitworth & Foust, Inc. has prepared specifications on plans for building two houses with FHA financing.

The work has taken almost 100 hours of Gibson's spare time, but the specifications are almost ready to be sent to the FHA for approval, Sikes related.

The houses are to be sold by Recovery to interested buyers. Dealing through FHA will be time consuming even after the plans are completed and submitted, Sikes said.

"It was my idea that we could move faster if we had enough funds locally to proceed with the buildings," Sikes said.

In addition to the organization's efforts to improve substandard housing, it will write the school to obtain a list of all high school graduates who are not intending to attend college and are interested in working in Sikeston, Sikes said.

City Manager Miller in response to a question said in time Recovery hopes to have a setup to receive requests for aid and deal with them as received.

The ultimate aim is to help anyone interested to obtain help so he can build, buy or improve his living conditions, he noted.

A revolving fund of $25,000 was mentioned by Sikes and Mitchell as sufficient to start construction projects. The money is needed for collateral to borrow more money and underwrite loans, Mitchell explained.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
No amount of life insurance can protect the girl who pursues the wrong policy.

STATES AND THE VOTING AGE
Voters in the state of Maryland are expected to approve a new constitution in a referendum on Tuesday (May 14.)

THE PROPOSED NEW CONSTITUTION in Maryland is considered by political scientists as setting the fashion for other states. "Without a doubt," says Prof. John P. Wheeler, constitutional consultant to the National Municipal League, "Maryland's convention can be a model for other states." The new charter is concise yet flexible.

The draft constitution will increase the Governor's power. It will create the post of Lieutenant Governor, and maintain those of State Controller and Attorney General as elected officials.

It includes a ban on racial discrimination, strong restrictions on wiretapping and eavesdropping, and a requirement that the General Assembly pass a conflict-of-interest code for elected officials. James E. Clayton observes: "Maryland, often regarded as one of the most poorly governed states in the Union, has demonstrated to the rest how a constitution ought to be written."

A MOST IMPORTANT FEATURE of the new constitution is a provision to reduce the voting age from 21 to 19 years. Until 1943 all states maintained minimum voting-age requirements at the traditional 21 year level. In that year, Georgia lowered its voting age to 18, heeding the wartime slogan, "Old enough to fight, old enough to vote."

Kentucky followed suit in 1955. When Alaska and Hawaii were admitted to the Union in 1958 and 1959, they set 19- and 20-year-old limits, respectively. In addition to Maryland, Nebraska and North Dakota have scheduled 1968 referenda on amendments to lower the voting age to 19. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York on May 2 came out strongly for voting rights for 18-year-olds.

From the 77th to the 89th Congress, 86 joint resolutions were introduced to grant voting rights to 18-year-olds. The Senate Judiciary Committee in 1952 reported a bill to that purpose but it never came to a vote on the floor. The Senate subcommittee on constitutional amendments on May 14 opens three days of hearings on resolutions relating to the lowering of voting age requirements.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTERS on April 23 approved five amendments to the state's constitution. Votes on constitutional reform are scheduled this year in Arkansas, Hawaii, Illinois, and New Mexico. According to the National Municipal League, constitutional conventions have been held in nine states and Puerto Rico in the past 15 years.

Limited constitutional reforms have been voted in recent years in New Jersey, Rhode Island, Tennessee, and Virginia. Initiatives toward modernizing charters will be on the ballot this fall in Massachusetts, Oregon, and Washington.

Committees or commissions are studying constitutional changes in California, Delaware, Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, and Vermont. Since 1960 studies have been made in 21 states.

"The typical citizen," writes Frank Trippett, an associate editor of Newsweek, "seldom thinks about his state legislature at all except during those periodic scandals that have so much human interest about them." Spurred by public-minded groups, the typical citizen is beginning to think in another direction, as the Maryland referendum and the new wave of constitutional reform indicate.

With narrowing profit margins and increasing competition at home... with overseas demand for American-made products at an all-time high... it makes more sense than ever to step up your overseas marketing," commented Mr. Harold L. Graham, vice president of Pan American World Airways. He continued, "...increased exports will help the U.S. correct its balance of payments deficit - which was close to $4 billion last year."

The American people are indebted to James Marlow, the Associated Press columnist who died Thursday.

Marlow was at his best in hacking his way through mazes of Washington red tape and bureaucratic terminology to explain complex issues in simple terms.

If he did not invent the A, B, C technique in interpretative reporting, he certainly refined it.

Americans understand their federal government and its complex problems much better because of Marlow's gifted prose.

During his mature life, the interpretative reporting technique that was his forte has grown rapidly and undergone many refinements.

His column was titled "The World Today." This was a misnomer. The Associated Press gave him a world-wide range but the Washington oriented and based reporter never really strayed from the national scene.

He was familiar with the national capital. The world was not his bailiwick.

The Associated Press probably gave him the global column title because his daily offering replaced one written by the late DeWitt MacKenzie, an experienced foreign correspondent.

MacKenzie wrote an engaging column of background to world events and about world personalities.

His column sparked with prose gems he had mined personally in long experience overseas.

In this respect the Marlowe column was inadequate and disappointing.

Careless people do not notice a notice.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

Every possible effort is being made, and should be made, to arrest the murderer of Martin Luther King. We think it was quite proper for the Federal Bureau of Investigation to name the chief suspect, to describe him, to reveal his long criminal record, and to release photographs of him. Newspapers from coast to coast have published this information, which may lead to the capture of the assassin.

We are surprised, however, that there has been no criticism of the FBI from the professors and others who were so concerned about the constitutional rights of another murder suspect in 1966.

The suspect was Richard Speck, the killer of eight student nurses in Chicago. His fingerprints were found in the dormitory where the girls were killed. A survivor identified his photograph. Police Supt. O. W. Wilson issued a warrant for his arrest and announced to the press that he was being sought. The superintendent released copies of Speck's pictures to the newspapers and held up a picture before television cameras.

As a result, Speck was soon arrested. A doctor at Cook County hospital who had read descriptions of the killer recognized his face and a tattoo. Thereafter no reporters were permitted to talk with him and the police made no effort to question him. The public defender was appointed to protect his rights.

But Supt. Wilson immediately came under criticism. Three Harvard professors of constitutional law said the superintendent had prejudiced the case by releasing pre-arrest information. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart called Wilson's action irresponsible in view of the Supreme court's ruling on pre-trial publicity in the case of Dr. Sam Sheppard of Cleveland.

The justice said that it was desirable, in order to prevent prejudicial pre-trial publicity, that police, prosecutors, and defense lawyers should be restricted severely by the courts in talking to the press before or during a trial. "Then the press won't have anything irresponsible to print," he said.

The Tribune, in reply to the critics of Supt. Wilson, pointed out that one of the most important elements in a fair trial is having a defendant to try. If the police had not supplied the press with information about Speck being wanted, the case might have been written off as another unsolved crime.

The No. 1 wanted man on the FBI list is now the suspected killer of Martin Luther King. It is important to capture him even at the risk of jeopardizing his chance for a fair trial.

But where are the law professors who, in the Speck case, were so anxious to protect Speck's constitutional rights?

ROTARY LOOKS AT VIOLENCE

Rotary International is concerned, as is everyone, with the rising incidence of crime in the world. But the business and professional organization frankly states that violence is worrisome "not only as a matter of public morality and safety but also as it affects business." Thus, Rotary will hold a symposium on Youth and Law and Order at its international convention in Mexico City, Wednesday, May 15.

Speakers at the symposium will include the President of Police of Frankfurt, West Germany; the Chief of the Swedish State Police; and the President of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. In addition, Rotary clubs from various parts of the world will be asked to report on programs designed to redirect the militancy of young people into constructive channels.

A concerted Rotary effort to combat crime through sponsorship of youth programs could produce impressive results. The organization has 625,000 members in 13,000 clubs in 139 countries and territories. Each club contains one representative of each business or profession in its locality. The name Rotary was derived from the original custom of meeting in rotation at the members' places of business. This year, incidentally, is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Paul Percy Harris, a Chicago lawyer who founded Rotary in 1905.

The cattlemen; nation's poor will cheaper grades of beef are suffer by foreign imports cut; imported from Australia, New Rep. Gubser decides he'll Zealand, and canned corned beef become a dove. WASHINGTON from Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, - Housewives don't know it, but a meat quota bill, which will boost the price of hamburger to 99 cents a pound, is now lurking in the wings of the senate. It will be rushed out for quick passage when Sen. Roman Hruska, Republican champion of Nebraska cattlemen, figures the public is distracted by something else.

The meat quota bill is part of a higher tariff deal of logging and senators who are out to put quotas on textiles, meat, steel, oil, shoes and various other consumer products. It was significant that when the textile quota bill came up in March, western cattle senators voted for it. It was part of the price-hiking deal. Western cattle senators have no political interest in a textile mills in New England, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. However, they had a secret deal with senators from these textile states to vote for a meat quota, if the western senators would vote for textiles.

Actually meat quotas would affect only the cheaper brands of meat used by poor citizens, such as hamburger, frankfurters, corned beef and chopped beef. Thus, while the poor people's march is converging on Washington and while both the Johnson administration and farighted business leaders are trying to lift the level of the economy of big cities, cattle senators are preparing to sneak through a bill boosting the price of the poor man's food.

Warns the National Restaurant Association: "The result of this bill would be to increase the cost of hamburgers to the consumer by 30 per cent to 50 per cent."

Boasts Sen. Hruska, author of the bill: "American beef is a premium product, delectable to the taste but not cheap to the pocketbook."

THE TELEGRAPHED PUNCH shares I have in the Brooklyn Bridge. What happened at Columbia was not a specific grievance to be cured by a specific surrender. It was an attempted take-over of a great university.

President Kirk called in the cops too late, but he did bow his neck against the demand that there be no discipline imposed on the rioters. This was fundamental, and he saw it.

Successful destruction of a university's authority depends on blurring the university out of firing the rioters. That was the way South American universities were eliminated as educational institutions and turned into cadres for revolution.

THE SDS is one of the world's most open conspiracies. Its leaders have apparently concluded that most college administrations are so paralyzed with fear at being repressive that revolution on the campus can be openly planned.

In the Sept. 9, 1966, issue of New Left Notes, the then SDS national vice president, Carl Davidson, described the scheme for getting "students and liberated professors to work out model curricula and agitate for its adoption, mainly because students participated in shaping it, rather than on its merits."

Get those last five words. IN A SPEECH to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington on April 18, Phil Semas, editor of the College Press Service, excoriated editors for not inviting Davidson to speak to them. He also rapped the editors for not having Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown on the program, although the editors had suffered through Carmichael a couple of years ago.

Semas denounced editors for being "mouthpieces for the military-industrial complex and its puppet politicians."

"Your failure," he said, "comes through most clearly in your lack of any sympathy toward groups that are working for basic changes, most notably the antiwar movement and the back power movement." Because of this failure, he added, "radicals have created their own press, sometimes taking over college papers."

Semas boasted that his College Press Service is used by 300 campus newspapers.

BY A FUNNY coincidence, at the very moment the rioters were trying to take over Columbia, leftist students in Paris were hoisting Viet Cong flags at the Arch of Triumph, pro-Peking students in Rome staged a sit-down; Tokyo students were burning American flags; and, in Prague, Czech officials dismissed schools so that students could take part in a "spontaneous demonstration" against the Vietnamese war.

In fact, it was a damned funny coincidence.

BIG 'AYE' FOR DEMOCRACY There are so many other problems to choose from these days that no one worries any more about how democracy is faring in Germany -- in that half of the nation that is privileged to try the system, that is.

Nevertheless, it is reassuring to learn the results of a recent poll of a cross-section of the citizenry of the Federal Republic (West Germany).

Asked the question, "Do you believe that democracy is the best form of government for Germany, or could you imagine a better one?", 74 per cent of the persons interviewed opted for democracy. Undecideds amounted to 22 per cent. Only 4 per cent thought another form of government would be better.

On the question of one party versus two or more parties, 55 per cent of the people asked said they thought several parties were better for the country. Another 26 per cent preferred "not more than two or three parties" -- a total of 81 per cent.

Those preferring only one party came to 9 per cent; another 9 per cent were undecided, and 1 per cent wanted "no party at all."

By contrast, in a comparable survey made in 1951, more than twice as many -- 22 per cent -- favored a one-party system.

In the matter of democracy, familiarity is definitely not breeding contempt among Germans.

labor bodies. It did not take Bliss long to get a copy, analyze it - and then simply send it along almost intact to his 257 "Republican State Chairmen, Suburban Republican Chairmen, and Big City - Country Republican Chairmen."

Washington, D.C. - Just the other day one union wit dolefully observed that the Republican National Committee was "bliss-kringing" labor's political action machinery straight across the U. S.

The reference, dripping with respect, was to GOP national chairman Ray Bliss, who has taken to sending labor's own political action literature to his regional chiefs to teach them the bit about infighting in the coming presidential campaign.

The immediate sites of battle are the suburbs where the pros on both sides are digging in for the final conflict long after the primary stories become forgotten clips in newspaper morgues.

This all began when labor's political leaders were startled to learn that fully half their 14.9 million members have left the central cities and are far more worried about sewage systems, stop lights, tax assessments and local school boards than they are about getting to the union hall to sign "Solidarity Forever" during "Good and Welfare" hours.

This is a new split-level proletariat, some 46 per cent of which earns between $7,500 and $15,000 annually (per family). This year their wages are rocketing at the rate of six per cent. Their early retirement pensions are averaging $100 a week. Their new contracts give them fantastic medical coverage and they would not know what the hell a union folksinger meant if he mouthed the old lines, "banker and boss hate the workers who stand shoulder to shoulder in every land."

It's this two-car garage proletariat which now stands shoulder to shoulder with local bankers and worries about the price of mortgage money.

This goes for longshoremen, about 80 per cent of whom have moved to the outlying district in recent years, as well as for the $300-a-30-hour-week electrician. But that's not all. Fully 75 per cent of America's trade unionists under 40 are now suburbanites. Except at contract time the only way their unions can find them is by hitting the memory box of the computer in the Machinists headquarters here.

This distressed both George Meany and Ray Bliss. The suburbs are Republican, and the labor leaders thought it might be catching. Bliss was concerned about the possibility of the weakening of the traditional Republican strongholds.

It was Meany's AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) which moved first. It developed war plans for the suburban offensive. Imaginatively, it wrapped up its battle plans in a 10-point action program and dispatched the "literature" to all its regional headquarters and local central

"I urge that you read the contents very carefully," he wrote them, "especially the article in reference to 'The New Frontier: Politics in the respect, was to GOP national chairman Ray Bliss, who has taken to sending labor's own political action literature to his regional chiefs to teach them the bit about infighting in the coming presidential campaign."

Mrs. B. C. Rice Teaches Son to Live By Golden Rule

To see that her family is philosophy she says she tried to provided with good meals and a good Christian home is today's mother's greatest challenge says Mrs. B. C. Rice, 210 Cresap.

Mrs. Rice believes that a mother's place is in the home. "Being a housewife during my married life was my joy and pleasure," she remembers.

How does Mrs. Rice know about the responsibilities of motherhood?

She has a son, Bernard C. Rice, 1027 North Kingshighway, and reared seven orphan nieces and nephews in her home.

Mrs. Rice is the grandmother of Stephen Blanton Rice and B. Clifton Rice Jr.

Mrs. Rice plans to spend tomorrow -- Mother's Day -- with her son and his family.

What advice does this 80-year-old mother give younger mothers?

She quotes a Bible verse, Proverbs 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

Taking children to Sunday School and church is another duty of parents, Mrs. Rice believes. "Go and take them to Sunday School and church -- don't send them," she advises. She has set a good example. She attends First Baptist church, where she has been a member since she was 16. She is a member of the TEL class of the church.

Another responsibility of parents is to teach their young children table manners and respect for their elders, Mrs. Rice says. However, she believes setting a good example for the child is the parents' duty. Setting a good example is the

The POWER of FAITH

WOODI ISHMAEL

H. Pierce Day, a proofreader for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is also an artist -- with a special mission of love and service. He paints portraits, without charge, for the families of servicemen from that area who have been killed in Vietnam. At present he has completed 11, with 10 more in progress, and has requests for 30 more. The response has been overwhelming and Day spends every spare minute at his easel hoping to ease the pain of those who have had a loss. He knows and understands their needs, for he has two sons and a son-in-law in service. One is a gunner on a helicopter in Vietnam.

He has had to move out of his little studio into the living room because parents and other relatives of casualties spend so much time with him. "I have to have their help," he says. "I've never seen these boys. It is a difficult thing to do." He works from photographs and snapshots and needs guidance on the color of hair, eyes and complexions. "I almost get to know these boys," he declares. "It's a wonderful feeling. What I strive for is expression, compassion, and faith."

HAVE YOU ARRIVED?

Most of us are seeking to arrive at some destination - financial security, academic attainment, trouble-free living of something. We keep thinking that just around another corner of life we will arrive. But somehow we never seem to get there. Perhaps the pertinent question is not, "Have you arrived?" but, "Are you pointed in the right direction?" Jesus Christ specialized in turning us around and heading us toward real satisfaction. Are you giving Him a chance to get hold of your life?

Former world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay has lost another round in his legal fight to avoid a prison sentence imposed for refusing induction into the Armed Forces.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Monday upheld Clay's conviction and five-year prison term, rejecting his claims to be a conscientious objector because of being a Black Muslim minister.

Clay, who prefers his Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, was convicted on criminal charges by a federal court jury in Houston, Tex., last June 20. The judge gave him the maximum sentence-five years behind bars and a $10,000 fine.

Lawyers for Clay, who is free on $5,000 bond, have promised a fight to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Clay's battle with the federal courts began April 28, 1967, at the Houston Induction Center where, in a highly publicized move, he refused to take the traditional one step forward which signifies entry into the military.

The influential U.S. boxing circles stripped Clay of his title when he defied the draft, but some countries of the world continue to recognize him as champion.

In its opinion the court noted that Clay "claims to be a minister of the lost nation of Islam Black Muslims" and maintains he was due a ministerial exemption from the draft.

Tracing Clay's activities back several years, the judges decided, "his vocation is clearly that of a professional boxer."

Clay contended that his constitutional rights had been violated by a systematic exclusion of Negroes from draft boards.

But the court quoted the National Advisory Commission on Selective Service as saying "there is no evidence that the variability of the Selective Service systems leads to any systematic biases against poor people, or Negroes."

Right-handed relief pitcher Stu Miller, released by the Baltimore Orioles and Atlanta Braves in quick succession this year, has been signed by the St. Louis Cardinals, the club announced today.

Miller will go to the Cardinals' Tulsa, Okla., farm club.

A losing season is an uncommon experience for Mizzou's John (Hi) Simmons—but only a super finish by his Tigers in the Big Eight baseball race will avert that fate.

The Missourians now stand 9-12 overall (7-7 in the league) with six games left against Kansas and Oklahoma State. They must win five to escape the "loser" label.

Nine years ago, the 1959 Bengals forfeited 13 victories for playing an ineligible outfielder, Gene Orf, and that officially changed a 16-4 season into a 3-17 catastrophe. This was Hi's last sub-.500 adventure. Previously, his 1949 team finished 7-11.

Going against Kansas at Lawrence this weekend, Mizzou will pitch Rich Henninger (4-2) and Jerry Hurt (2-3) in the Friday double-header—and

Watching Pitchers' Every Move Brings Message to Olive

TONY OLIVA
Always Has Confidence

By TONY OLIVA
Of the Minnesota Twins
A young hitter should always have confidence in his ability to hit the pitched ball. I have always felt that way. It has helped me.

Another thing that will help kids hit the ball to all fields is to put in their minds that they will try to hit the ball back through the middle of the field.

I can hit to left field and right field because I don't try to pull the ball. I try to hit straight away.

I never worry about hitting. If I get into a little slump, even 0 for 4 in a game, I say 'I'll catch him tomorrow.'

I worry about my catching and throwing the ball and I practice on these two things a lot.

Maybe it's not best for a youngster to hold the bat on the end but I hold it that way only because I have good control that way.

I watched the pitcher on the other team all the time to see how he's pitching to our batters. This is a big help because it tells me something about his delivery, his speed and his breaking stuff.

If youngsters watch the other pitcher they might be able to time his pitches better because to be a good hitter you must have good timing in your swing.

(Tony Oliva, 26, is the only major league ever to win batting titles in his first two seasons. He has played on the American League All-Star team in each of his four big league campaigns and has a .312 career average.)

Offy's Showing Promise

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) -

The accent has been on the turbine-powered cars, but the pepped-up Offenhauser and Ford cars have demonstrated plenty of weight for this year's Indianapolis 500-mile race.

The turbocharged Offy of Bobby Unser has won three straight races on the U.S. Auto Club circuit for Indianapolis-type cars.

The turbocharged Ford, minus many of its earlier problems, made its season's debut at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Thursday.

Jim Malloy of Denver, Colo., got his turbo Ford up to 161.5 miles an hour.

"I figured they'd solve the problems they'd been having with this thing," he said. "But I never thought they'd come up with anything like this. There really aren't any problems to speak of. I think we can have the car ready to go full out in a couple of days."

Malloy said adjustment of the manifold was the major improvement, with the power "nice and gradual" now.

NEW YORK (AP) - John Powers was named head basketball coach at Manhattan College Thursday, succeeding Ken Norton, who will continue as athletic director.

POPLAR BLUFF -- AAU track and field activity will focus on Poplar Bluff this summer with major AAU Junior Olympics and National AAU women's competition slated to be held here.

July will be the big month as the Junior Olympics Track and Field Regional Championships will be held on the 13th. This meet will host the finalists from the Junior Olympic Final Meets in the Ozark, Missouri Valley (includes western Missouri, Kansas), Oklahoma and Arkansas AAU Associations.

Competition will be held in selected events in the boys and girls intermediate and senior divisions, with the winners qualifying for the 1968 National Junior Olympic Championships.

On July 26 and 27, Poplar Bluff will be host to the AAU Women's Junior National Outdoor Track and Field Championships. This will be the first major AAU women's track championship of the 1968 season and is expected to attract several hundred of the nation's top female athletes. This meet was last held here in 1966 and at that time produced 11 new women's junior national records. As this is an Olympic year, all the running events will be held at the metric distances and many junior national records at these distances as expected to tumble. Information concerning these AAU events may be secured from Sam Giambelluca, 1020 OS Kendall Drive, Poplar Bluff, Mo. 63901.

Farm Labor Bulletin

STATE SUMMARY:
Dry weather over the state has permitted an acceleration of field work. Corn, cotton and soybean planting is well underway.

Strawberry harvest in the Kennett area starts week of May 6 with sufficient labor available. MDTA Farm Training Class at Marshall completed May 3; all trainees interested in farm work have been placed. Another class of 15 trainees starts May 6.

SOUTHEAST
Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway - Telephone: Granite 1-2731

Planting in full swing in Sikeston area. 90% of cotton and approximately 10% of beans completed. Demands for year-round farm hands are at 16 including one for harvest crew to leave area 5-15-68. Wage generally $50 week and up with a few offering $1.25 per hour and minimum earnings guaranteed. Well qualified farm equipment operators very scarce. Farm Labor Information Station & Rest Camp, Route 2, Sikeston

The Sikeston Farm Labor Camp served 142 migrants last week with 24 enroute to Illinois, 15 going to Indiana, and 103 reported Michigan as next work area.

Cape Girardeau: 231 North Main Street - Telephone: Edgewater 5-6666

Strawberry picking to start about May 12. Adequate local labor available. Wage 8 cents to 10 cents per quart for picking. Demand for farm labor continues active, with supply of qualified farm hands short of actual need. Some student labor being utilized to fill local demand. Recruitment of cannery type labor started. All workers, 18 to older, are urged to sign up for this work immediately.

West Plains: 111 Walnut Street - Telephone: 256-3158

Labor situation remains same. Have referred three trainees to MDTA Farm School at Marshall, one single hand to Kirksville area.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis - Telephone: 888-4518

Good weather has prevailed through the entire week. An estimated 60% of the cotton was planted this week. Two strawberry growers in the south end of the county will start harvesting next week. A crew of 30 pickers from Texas is due here May 5 or 6. Crews from Pemiscott County will also be used. Local labor will also participate. Strawberry harvest is 20 days later than last year. No labor problem is foreseen at this time.

Caruthersville: 300 Ward Street - Telephone: Edison 3-2416

A week of beautiful weather has brought about a considerable change throughout this area. It is amazing the amount of work that can be done in so short a time. Many farmers have completed planting cotton for the first time and are hopeful that the conditions that prevailed last year do not repeat themselves this year. Several crew leaders have been contacted and have accepted orders for other areas.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street - Telephone: 785-9606

No orders on file in local office at present time. Some planting now being done over this area. Very few seeking farm work.

ZATEC, Czechoslovakia (AP)

The smallest brewery in Czechoslovakia produces daily 50 liters of beer, the news agency CTK reported, adding that the mini-brewery was part of a hop-growing research institute which tests the influence of different hops on the taste of beer.

Ann Landers

Claude Nothing to Sneeze at

Dear Ann Landers: I was raised in a family that blesses sneezers. This is more than just superstition, it is a kindly gesture of wishing one well.

The man I am going with is considerate in many ways but when I sneeze Claude never says anything, although I always say "God bless you" when he sneezes. A few weeks ago I mentioned this to him and he gave me a look of disgust and sighed, "Such nonsense, but I'll try to remember." He remembered exactly once and he has not said it since.

Last night I sneezed four times in a row, I said, "Claude, I sneezed." He answered, "Do you need a handkerchief?"

Please tell me why he is so stubborn? What do you suggest I do about it? -- KERCHIOO AND UNBLESSED

Dear Kerchioo: Claude is not stubborn, he was just not raised to be a sneezer. My advice is to give up. Continue to bless him when he sneezes and settle for the blessings you get from the members of your family who were raised in the tradition.

Dear Ann Landers: Where does devotion end and bad taste

begin? A group of us were discussing an item which appeared in the Oneida Daily Dispatch recently and we were split right down the middle. The women thought it was lovely. The men thought it was terrible. Here is the item which appeared under "Personals" in the classified section of the newspaper:

"My wife Betty L. K., having shared my bed and board, having given me two lovely daughters and put up with me for the past 14 years, I will continue to be responsible for her debts for at least 14 more years. -- Paul A. K."

What is your opinion, Ann? -- ONEIDA, N. Y. INQUIRERS

Dear Ann: I see nothing offensive about the ad (although it's a bit ungrammatical). I'm sure Paul accomplished what he had set out to do -- to surprise Betty.

One would assume, however, ad or no ad, that a couple who had been living together for 14 years were sharing bed and board, and that Paul has been paying the bills and intends to keep on paying them.

Dear Ann Landers: When I

was 14 I made a big mistake with an older boy. Fortunately I did not get pregnant. I read in your column recently where you said a girl should not tell this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope if my fiancé will know about my mistake even if I don't tell him. I hope you catch on to what I am talking about. Thank you for your answer. -- SIXTEEN BUT NOT SO SWEET

Dear No So: Yes, I catch on, and the answer is probably not. Sometimes a girl who is totally inexperienced needs to undergo minor surgery but this is rare. In no instances there is no physical evidence of virginity. Confidential to Hoping And Praying: Your erstwhile desire that the stork would break a leg and not keep his date is a rather bleak one at this late date. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and tell me your religion I will recommend a home for unwed mothers.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

STATES AND THE VOTING AGE

Voters in the state of Maryland are expected to approve a new constitution in a referendum on Tuesday (May 14.)

THE PROPOSED NEW CONSTITUTION in Maryland is considered by political scientists as setting the fashion for other states. "Without a doubt," says Prof. John P. Wheeler, constitutional consultant to the National Municipal League. "Maryland's convention can be a model for other states." The new charter is concise yet flexible.

The draft constitution will increase the Governor's power. It will create the post of Lieutenant Governor, and maintain those of State Controller and Attorney General as elected officials.

It includes a ban on racial discrimination, strong restrictions on wiretapping and eavesdropping, and a requirement that the General Assembly pass a conflict-of-interest code for elected officials. James E. Clayton observes: "Maryland, often regarded as one of the most poorly governed states in the Union, has demonstrated to the rest how a constitution ought to be written."

A MOST IMPORTANT FEATURE of the new constitution is a provision to reduce the voting age from 21 to 19 years. Until 1943 all states maintained minimum voting-age requirements at the traditional 21 year level. In that year, Georgia lowered its voting age to 18, heeding the wartime slogan, "Old enough to fight, old enough to vote."

Kentucky followed suit in 1955. When Alaska and Hawaii were admitted to the Union in 1958 and 1959, they set 19- and 20-year-old limits, respectively. In addition to Maryland, Nebraska and North Dakota have scheduled 1968 referenda on amendments to lower the voting age to 19. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York on May 2 came out strongly for voting rights for 18-year-olds.

From the 77th to the 89th Congress, 86 joint resolutions were introduced to grant voting rights to 18-year-olds. The Senate Judiciary Committee in 1952 reported a bill to that purpose but it never came to a vote on the floor. The Senate subcommittee on constitutional amendments on May 14 opens three days of hearings on resolutions relating to the lowering of voting age requirements.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTERS on April 23 approved five amendments to the state's constitution. Votes on constitutional reform are scheduled this year in Arkansas, Hawaii, Illinois, and New Mexico. According to the National Municipal League, constitutional conventions have been held in nine states and Puerto Rico in the past 15 years.

Limited constitutional reforms have been voted in recent years in New Jersey, Rhode Island, Tennessee, and Virginia. Initiatives toward modernizing charters will be on the ballot this fall in Massachusetts, Oregon, and Washington.

Committees or commissions are studying constitutional changes in California, Delaware, Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia, and Vermont. Since 1960 studies have been made in 21 states.

"The typical citizen," writes Frank Trippett, an associate editor of Newsweek, "seldom thinks about his state legislature at all except during those periodic scandals that have so much human interest about them." Spurred by public-minded groups, the typical citizen is beginning to think in another direction, as the Maryland referendum and the new wave of constitutional reform indicate.

THE DATE BOOK: May 12-18, National Hospital Week - National Transportation Week; May 12, Mothers Day; May 14, 1948 (20 years ago), Free State of Israel was proclaimed; May 15, 1918 (50 years ago), First air mail service in the world was inaugurated between Washington, D.C. and New York City; May 17, 1954 (14 years ago), Supreme Court ruled that school segregation was unconstitutional.

A farm woman near Sikeston weighed 98 pounds. When her 25-pound baby was not asleep, she carried it most of the time while she was feeding 250 chickens, 30 head of hogs, and cooking for her family and three hired men. Still, her friends in town asked her if she didn't get lonesome in the country.

With narrowing profit margins and increasing competition at home... with overseas demand for American-made products at an all-time high... it makes more sense than ever to step up your overseas marketing," commented Mr. Harold L. Graham, vice president of Pan American World Airways. He continued, "... increased exports will help the U.S. correct its balance of payments deficit - which was close to $4 billion last year."

The American people are indebted to James Marlow, the Associated Press columnist who died Thursday.

Marlow was at his best in hacking his way through mazes of Washington red tape and bureaucratic terminology to explain complex issues in simple terms.

If he did not invent the A, B, C technique in interpretative reporting, he certainly refined it.

Americans understand their federal government and its complex problems much better because of Marlow's gifted prose.

During his mature life, the interpretative reporting technique that was his forte has grown rapidly and undergone many refinements.

His column was titled "The World Today." This was a misnomer. The Associated Press gave him a world-wide range but the Washington oriented and based reporter never really strayed from the national scene.

He was familiar with the national capital. The world was not his bailiwick.

The Associated Press probably gave him the global column title because his daily offering replaced one written by the late DeWitt MacKenzie, an experienced foreign correspondent.

MacKenzie wrote an engaging column of background to world events and about world personalities.

His column sparked with prose gems he had mined personally in long experience overseas.

In this respect the Marlowe column was inadequate and disappointing.

Careless people do not notice a notice.

For the price of two airforce fighter bombers, UNICEF has provided the vaccine to protect 226 million children from TB.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

Every possible effort is being made, and should be made, to arrest the murderer of Martin Luther King. We think it was quite proper for the Federal Bureau of Investigation to name the chief suspect, to describe him, to reveal his long criminal record, and to release photographs of him. Newspapers from coast to coast have published this information, which may lead to the capture of the assassin.

We are surprised, however, that there has been no criticism of the FBI from the professors and others who were so concerned about the constitutional rights of another murder suspect in 1966.

The suspect was Richard Speck, the killer of eight student nurses in Chicago. His fingerprints were found in the dormitory where the girls were killed. A survivor identified his photograph. Police Supt. O. W. Wilson issued a warrant for his arrest and announced to the press that he was being sought. The superintendent released copies of Speck's pictures to the newspapers and held up a picture before television cameras.

As a result, Speck was soon arrested. A doctor at Cook County hospital who had read descriptions of the killer recognized his face and a tattoo. Thereafter no reporters were permitted to talk with him and the police made no effort to question him. The public defender was appointed to protect his rights.

But Supt. Wilson immediately came under criticism. Three Harvard professors of constitutional law said the superintendent had prejudiced the case by releasing pre-arrest information. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart called Wilson's action irresponsible in view of the Supreme court's ruling on pre-trial publicity in the case of Dr. Sam Sheppard of Cleveland.

The justice said that it was desirable, in order to prevent prejudicial pre-trial publicity, that police, prosecutors, and defense lawyers should be restricted severely by the courts in talking to the press before or during a trial. "Then the press won't have anything irresponsible to print," he said.

The Tribune, in reply to the critics of Supt. Wilson, pointed out that one of the most important elements in a fair trial is having a defendant to try. If the police had not supplied the press with information about Speck being wanted, the case might have been written off as another unsolved crime.

The No. 1 wanted man on the FBI list is now the suspected killer of Martin Luther King. It is important to capture him even at the risk of jeopardizing his chance for a fair trial.

But where are the law professors who, in the Speck case, were so anxious to protect Speck's constitutional rights?

A Phoenix Too Frequent. In Louisville, Ky., state liquor administrators at a national conference sadly heard a discouraging report: the nation's moonshine industry has now grown bigger than the legal liquor industry.

ROTARY LOOKS AT VIOLENCE

Rotary International is concerned, as is everyone, with the rising incidence of crime in the world. But the business and professional organization frankly states that violence is worrisome "not only as a matter of public morality and safety but also as it affects business." Thus, Rotary will hold a symposium on Youth and Law and Order at its international convention in Mexico City, Wednesday, May 15.

Speakers at the symposium will include the President of Police of Frankfurt, West Germany; the Chief of the Swedish State Police; and the President of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. In addition, Rotary clubs from various parts of the world will be asked to report on programs designed to redirect the militancy of young people into constructive channels.

A concerted Rotary effort to combat crime through sponsorship of youth programs could produce impressive results. The organization has 625,000 members in 13,000 clubs in 139 countries and territories. Each club contains one representative of each business or profession in its locality. The name Rotary was derived from the original custom of meeting in rotation at the members' places of business. This year, incidentally, is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Paul Percy Harris, a Chicago lawyer who founded Rotary in 1905.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Sen. Hruska readies bill to aid T-bone steaks and sirloin. The cattlemen; nation's poor will be cheaper grades of beef are suffer by foreign imports cut; imported from Australia, New Rep. Gubser decides he'll Zealand, and canned corned beef become a dove. WASHINGTON from Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, and Paraguay.

ONE-WAY TRADE Thus, while the United States is urging Australia and New Zealand to give more support for Vietnam and while we are trying to promote the Alliance for Progress with South America, Sen. Hruska wants to cut off meat imports from these friends and allies.

The meat quota bill is part of a high-tariff cabal of logrolling senators who are out to put quotas on textiles, meat, steel, oil, shoes and various other consumer products. It was significant that when the textile quota bill came up in March, western cattle senators voted for it. It was part of the price-biking deal. Western cattle senators have no political interest in an textile mills in New England, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. However, they had a secret deal with senators from these textile states to vote for a meat quota, if the western senators would vote for textiles.

Actually meat quotas would affect only the cheaper brands of meat used by poor citizens, such as hamburger, frankfurters, corned beef and chopped beef. Thus, while the poor people's march is converging on Washington and while both the Johnson administration and farsighted business leaders are trying to lift the level of the economy of big cities, cattle senators are paring to sneak through a bill boosting the price of the poor man's food.

Warns the National Restaurant Association: "The result of this bill would be to increase the cost of hamburgers to the consumer by 30 per cent to 50 per cent."

Boasts Sen. Hruska, author of the bill: "American beef is a premium product, delectable to the taste but not cheap to the pocketbook."

Hruska's cattlemen admit that practically all American beef is sold to the military.

Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Calif., has just come back from the trip Gubser spent three days in Hong Kong visiting his tailor and only four days in Vietnam. He spent only one day in Korea, where there are constant hostilities across the 38th Parallel with danger of another war breaking.

ALICE WIDENER, the tough-minded publisher of U.S.A. magazine, reported that meeting in her March 1 issue. Since the riots were being planned in a building belonging to NYU, she asked the university administration if it knew what was going on.

"It is not university practice to supervise meetings sponsored by duly constituted student groups," was the lofty reply.

Although plans for the campus commotions were well advanced by the February meeting, no one mentioned the Columbia gym project. If Mayor Lindsay thinks that the gym plan caused the riot, I wonder if he might be interested in several

BIG 'AYE' FOR DEMOCRACY There are so many other problems to choose from these days that no one worries any more about how democracy is faring in Germany -- in that half of the nation that is privileged to try the system, that is.

Nevertheless, it is reassuring to learn the results of a recent poll of a cross-section of the citizenry of the Federal Republic (West Germany.)

Asked the question, "Do you believe that democracy is the best form of government for Germany, or could you imagine a better one?", 74 per cent of the persons interviewed opted for democracy. Undecideds amounted to 22 per cent. Only 4 per cent thought another form of government would be better.

On the question of one party versus two or more parties, 55 per cent of the people asked said they thought several parties were better for the country. Another 26 per cent preferred "not more than two or three parties" -- a total of 81 per cent.

Those preferring only one party came to 9 per cent; another 9 per cent wanted "no party at all."

By contrast, in a comparable survey made in 1951, more than twice as many -- 22 per cent -- favored a one-party system.

In the matter of democracy, familiarity is definitely not breeding contempt among Germans.

HAD TO - Dipro - "These air-conditioned trains are a great improvement."

Matt -- "They had to do it. Nobody could get the windows open."

THE TELEGRAPHED PUNCH shares I have in the Brooklyn Bridge.

What happened at Columbia was not a specific grievance to be cured by a specific surrender. It was an attempted take-over of a great university.

President Kirk called in the cops too late, but he did bow his neck against the demand that there be no discipline imposed on the rioters. This was fundamental, and he saw it.

Successful destruction of a university's authority depends on bluffing the university out of firing the ring leaders. That was the way South American universities were eliminated as educational institutions and turned into cadres for revolution.

THE SDS is one of the world's most open conspiracies. Its leaders have apparently concluded that most college administrations are so paralyzed with fear at being repressive that revolution on the campus can be openly planned.

In the Sept. 9, 1966, issue of New Left Notes, the then SDS national vice president, Carl Davidson, described the scheme for getting "students and liberated professors to work out model curricula and agitate for its adoption, mainly because students participated in shaping it, rather than on its merits."

Get those last five words.

IN A SPEECH to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington on April 18, Phil Semas, editor of the College Press Service, excoriated editors for not inviting Davidson to speak to them. He also rapped the editors for not having Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown on the program, although the editors had suffered through Carmichael a couple of years ago.

Semas denounced editors for being "mouthpieces for the military-industrial complex and its puppet politicians."

"Your failure," he said, "comes through most clearly in your lack of any sympathy toward groups that are working for basic changes, most notably the antiwar movement and the bad power movement." Because of this failure, he added, "radicals have created their own press, sometimes taking over college papers."

Semas boasted that his College Press Service is used by 300 campus newspapers.

BY A FUNNY coincidence, at the very moment the rioters were trying to take over Columbia, leftist students in Paris were hoisting Viet Cong flags at the Arch of Triumph; pro-Peking students in Rome staged a sit-down; Tokyo students were burning American flags; and in Prague, Czech students dismissed schools so that students could take part in a "spontaneous demonstration" against the Vietnamese war.

In fact, it was a damned funny coincidence.

MRS. B. C. RICE, 210 Cresap, talks with her son, Bernard C. Rice, 1027 North Kingshighway.

Mrs. B. C. Rice Teaches Son to Live By Golden Rule

To see that her family is provided with good meals and a good Christian home is today's mother's greatest challenge says Mrs. B. C. Rice, 210 Cresap.

Mrs. Rice believes that a mother's place is in the home. "Being a housewife during my married life was my joy and pleasure," she remembers.

How does Mrs. Rice know about the responsibilities of motherhood?

She has a son, Bernard C. Rice, 1027 North Kingshighway, and reared seven orphan nieces and nephews in her home.

Mrs. Rice is the grandmother of Stephen Blanton Rice and B. Clifton Rice Jr.

Mrs. Rice plans to spend tomorrow -- Mother's Day -- with her son and his family.

What advice does this 80-year-old mother give younger mothers?

She quotes a Bible verse, Proverbs 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

Taking children to Sunday School and church is another duty of parents, Mrs. Rice believes. "Go and take them to Sunday School and church -- don't send them," she advises. She has set a good example. She attends First Baptist church, where she has been a member since she was 16. She is a member of the TEL class of the church.

Another responsibility of parents is to teach their young children table manners and respect for their elders, Mrs. Rice says. However, she believes setting a good example for the child is the parents' duty. Setting a good example is the

HAVE YOU ARRIVED?

Most of us are seeking to arrive at some destination - financial security, academic attainment, trouble-free living of something. We keep thinking that just around another corner of life we will arrive. But somehow we never seem to get there. Perhaps the pertinent question is not, "Have you arrived," but, "Are you pointed in the right direction?" Jesus Christ specialized in turning us around and heading us toward real satisfaction. Are you giving Him a chance to get hold of your life?

Sincerely,
Robert E. Lively, Jr.

The POWER of FAITH

H. Pierce Day, a proofreader for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is also an artist -- with a special mission of love and service. He paints portraits, without charge, for the families of servicemen from that area who have been killed in Vietnam. At present he has completed 11, with 10 more in progress, and has requests for 30 more. The response has been overwhelming and Day spends every spare minute at his easel hoping to ease the pain of those who have had a loss. He knows and understands their needs, for he has two sons and a son-in-law in service. One is a gunner on a helicopter in Vietnam.

He has had to move out of his little studio into the living room because parents and other relatives of casualties spend so much time with him. "I have to have their help," he says. "I've never seen these boys. It is a difficult thing to do." He works from photographs and snapshots and needs guidance on the color of hair, eyes and complexion. "I almost get to know these boys," he declares. "It's a wonderful feeling. What I strive for is expression, compassion, and faith."

Former world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay has lost another round in his legal fight to avoid a prison sentence imposed for refusing induction into the Armed Forces.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Monday upheld Clay's conviction and five-year prison term, rejecting his claims to be a conscientious objector because of being a Black Muslim minister.

Clay, who prefers his Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, was convicted on criminal charges by a federal court jury in Houston, Tex., last June 20. The judge gave him the maximum sentence-five years behind bars and a $10,000 fine.

Lawyers for Clay, who is free on $5,000 bond, have promised a fight to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Clay's battle with the federal courts began April 28, 1967, at the Houston Induction Center, where, in a highly publicized move, he refused to take the traditional one step forward which signifies entry into the military.

The influential U.S. boxing circles stripped Clay of his title when he defied the draft, but some countries of the world continue to recognize him as champion.

In its opinion the court noted that Clay "claims to be a minister of the lost nation of Islam Black Muslims" and maintains he was due a ministerial exemption from the draft.

Tracing Clay's activities back several years, the judges decided, "his vocation is clearly that of a professional boxer."

Clay contended that his constitutional rights had been violated by a systematic exclusion of Negroes from draft boards.

But the court quoted the National Advisory Commission on Selective Service as saying "there is no evidence that the variability of the Selective Service systems leads to any systematic biases against poor people or Negroes."

Right-handed relief pitcher Stu Miller, released by the Baltimore Orioles and Atlanta Braves in quick succession this year, has been signed by the St. Louis Cardinals, the club announced today.

Miller will go to the Cardinals' Tulsa, Okla., farm club.

A losing season is an uncommon experience for Mizzou's John (Hi) Simmons—but only a super finish by his Tigers in the Big Eight baseball race will avert that fate.

The Missourians now stand 9-12 overall (7-7 in the league), with six games left against Kansas and Oklahoma State. They must win five to escape the "loser" label.

Nine years ago, the 1959 Bengals forfeited 13 victories for playing an ineligible outfielder, Gene Orf, and that officially changed a 16-4 season into a 3-17 catastrophe. This was Hi's last sub-.500 adventure. Previously, his 1949 team finished 7-11.

Going against Kansas at Lawrence this weekend, Mizzou will pitch Rich Henninger (4-2) and Jerry Hurt (2-3) in the Friday double-header—and

Watching Pitchers' Every Move Brings Message to Olive

TONY OLIVA
Always Has Confidence

By TONY OLIVA
Of the Minnesota Twins
A young hitter should always have confidence in his ability to hit the pitched ball. I have always felt that way. It has helped me.

Another thing that will help kids hit the ball to all fields is to put in their minds that they will try to hit the ball back through the middle of the field.

I can hit to left field and right field because I don't try to pull the ball. I try to hit straight away.

I never worry about hitting. If I get into a little slump, even 0 for 4 in a game, I say 'I'll catch him tomorrow.'

I worry about my catching and throwing the ball and I practice on these two things a lot.

Maybe it's not best for a youngster to hold the bat on the end but I hold it that way only because I have good control that way.

I watched the pitcher on the other team all the time to see how he's pitching to our batters. This is a big help because it tells me something about his delivery, his speed and his breaking stuff.

If youngsters watch the other pitcher they might be able to time his pitches better because to be a good hitter you must have good timing in your swing.

(Tony Oliva, 26, is the only major leaguer ever to win batting titles in his first two seasons. He has played on the American League All-Star team in each of his four big league campaigns and has a .312 career average).

Strawberry picking to start about May 12. Adequate local labor available. Wage 8 cents to 10 cents per quart for picking. Demand for farm labor continues active, with supply of qualified farm hands short of actual need. Some student labor being utilized to fill local demand. Recruitment of cannery type labor started. All workers, 18 to older, are urged to sign up for this work immediately.

West Plains: 111 Walnut Street - Telephone: 256-3158

Labor situation remains same.

Have referred three trainees to MDTA Farm School at Marshall, one single hand to Kirksville area. Kennett: 405 St. Francis - Telephone: 888-4518

Good weather has prevailed through the entire week. An estimated 60% of the cotton was planted this week. Two strawberry growers in the south end of the county will start harvesting next week. A crew of 30 pickers from Texas is due here May 5 or 6. Crews from Pemiscot County will also be used. Local labor will also participate. Strawberry harvest is 20 days later than last year. No labor problem is foreseen at this time.

Caruthersville: 300 Ward Street - Telephone: Edison 3-2416

A week of beautiful weather has brought about a considerable change throughout this area. It is amazing the amount of work that can be done in so short a time. Many farmers have completed planting cotton for the first time and are hopeful that the conditions that prevailed last year do not repeat themselves this year. Several crew leaders have been contacted and have accepted orders for other areas.

Phone: Bluff 211 Pine Street - Telephone: 785-9506

No orders on file in local office at present time. Some planting now being done over this area. Very few seeking farm work.

Ann Landers

Claude Nothing to Sneeze at

Dear Ann Landers: I was raised in a family that blesses sneezers. This is more than just superstition, it is a kindly gesture of wishing one well.

The man I am going with is considerate in many ways but when I sneeze Claude never says anything, although I always say "God bless you" when he sneezes. A few weeks ago I mentioned this to him and he gave me a look of disgust and sighed, "Such nonsense, but I'll try to remember." He remembered exactly once and has not said it since.

Last night I sneezed four times in a row. I said, "Claude, I sneezed." He answered, "Do you need a handkerchief?"

Please tell me why he is so stubborn? What do you suggest I do about it? - KERCHOO AND UNBLESSED

Dear Kerchoo: Claude is not stubborn, he just is not raised to be a sneezer. My advice is to give up. Continue to bless him when he sneezes and settle for the blessings you get from the members of your family who were raised in the tradition.

Dear Ann Landers: Where does devotion end and bad taste

begin? A group of us were discussing an item which appeared in the Oneida Daily Dispatch recently and we were split right down the middle. The women thought it was lovely. Here is the item which appeared under "Personals" in the classified section of the newspaper:

"My wife Betty L. K., having shared my bed and board, having given me two lovely daughters and put up with me for the past 14 years, I will continue to be responsible for her debts for at least 14 more years. - Paul A. K."

What is your opinion, Ann? - ONEIDA, N. Y. INQUIRERS

Dear In: I see nothing offensive about the ad (although it's a bit ungrammatical). I'm sure Paul accomplished what he had set out to do -- to surprise Betty.

One would assume, however, ad or no ad, that a couple who had been living together for 14 years were sharing bed and board, and that Paul has been paying the bills and intends to keep on paying them.

Dear Ann Landers: When I

was 14 I made a big mistake with an older boy. Fortunately I did not get pregnant. I read in your column recently where you said a girl should not tell this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, if my fiancé will know about my mistake even if I don't tell him. I hope you catch on to what I am talking about. Thank you for your answer. - SIXTEEN BUT NOT SO SWEET

Dear No So: Yes, I catch on, and the answer is probably not. Sometimes a girl who is totally inexperienced needs to undergo minor surgery but this is rare. In most instances there is no physical evidence of virginity.

Confidential to Hoping And Praying: Your erstwhile desire that the stork would break a leg and not keep his date is a rather bleak one at this late date. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and tell me your religion I will recommend a home for unwed mothers.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Armor Not Required
Of Auto Makers

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

While proudly driving his new automobile down a highway, Norton had the bad fortune to have an accident with Miss Fortune. While he gave her the right of way as a matter of prudence and not chivalry, she still managed to crash her automobile into the side of Norton's car. Badly injured in the mishap, Norton not only sued Miss Fortune for damages, but sued the manufacturer of his car as well.

"The car was a coffin on wheels," he told the Judge. "It was unsafe. It had an X framed that offered absolutely no protection. When it got hit in the side, it folded up like a bridge chair."

"He can't blame us because he got hurt," answered the manufacturer, "and he can't blame our car either. We sell beautiful cars, not armored tanks."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the manufacturer responsible for Norton's injuries by not providing him with a safer car?

This is how the Judge ruled: NO! The Judge held that a manufacturer has no obligation to make cars that are fool proof or accident proof; that cars are not made to collide with each other but to be driven.

Although it might be nice to require manufacturers to make collision proof cars, concluded the Judge, such a requirement would necessitate new legislation since it's not provided for by existing laws. (Based upon a 1966 U. S. Court of Appeals Decision) conducted by two university students.

Professor Schulz said in his report that "fact-finding rather than just fault-finding is sorely needed as a first step in improvement or as a foundation for county or state action." Court reform, he said, "comes slowly and only in response to active public pressure."

As a first step the report recommended a uniform method of court record keeping and reporting to a central state agency. Now the courts state handle misdemeanors - city and police magistrates - keep their own records in their own fashion and the effort to reach any definite conclusions is difficult.

It also suggested a training program for all judges of misdemeanor courts.

The report made these comments:

The State Board of Probation and Parole should be expanded to handle supervision of those who violate the misdemeanor laws. As an example, it does no good to jail a person accused of non-support. In jail he can't provide that support, either.

By legislation or Supreme Court rule defendants charged with misdemeanors should be allowed their freedom on their own recognizance while awaiting trial.

The survey found during April of 1967, the only month studied, that 74.6 per cent of the misdemeanors were in the traffic or miscellaneous category.

Of the rest it broke down to: Driving while intoxicated 6.1 per cent, common assault 3.6 per cent, non-support 4.6 per cent, insufficient fund check 6.24 per cent, stealing under $50 2.5 per cent and minor possessing liquor 2.35 per cent.

Of those convicted, 6.17 per cent were put on probation or parole, 4.56 per cent were jailed and 89.26 per cent were fined.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -

Too little is known about the procedures and the adequacy of controlling misdemeanors in Missouri, a study showed today. It was submitted to the Citizens Committee on Delinquency and Crime.

"The crime picture in Missouri is quite like an iceberg," the study report said, "with only major or serious crimes being reported to the F.B.I. or reported in our newspapers."

"The misdemeanor represents the vast submerged part of the iceberg."

The study, conducted from scratch because of the absence of any central records was submitted by a subcommittee headed by Charles Mann, executive director of the St. Louis Bureau for men.

Supervision and actual reporting was by Asst. Mayor Prof. LeRoy G. Schulz of the University of Missouri at Columbia. Interviews were
